The present essay “How to avoid foolish opinions “is extracted from the basic writing of Bertrand Russell.

ABOUT THE ESSAY: -

The present essay “how to avoid foolish opinions” is extracted from the book the basic writings of Bertrand Russell. In this essay he offers some advises which help us stay away from obvious errors and dealing simple personal and social affairs lives.

The essay is based on five important points related to thinking process and their solutions.

He asks people to

- Make observation
- Reassess if you get angry with others opinion
- Seek different opinions
- Imagine an argument with a person having a different bias
- Beware of opinions that flatter yourself esteem.

IF THE MATTER CAN BE SETTLED BY OBSERVATION MAKE OBSERVATION YOURSELF: -

Aristotle thought that women have fewer teeth(less) than man. He should have asked misses Aristotle to keep her mouth open and counted. He did not do so because he thought he knew.

I believe myself that hedgehogs eat black beetles but if I were writing a book on the habits of hedgehogs I should not commit myself until I had seen one enjoying this unappetizing diet.

REASSES IF YOU GET ANGRY WITH OTHERS OPINION: -

If someone says that two and two is five or that Iceland in on the equator you feel pretty rather than anger.

The most savage contra verses are those about matters as to good which there is no evidence either ways that why persecution is not used in arithmetic. In arithmetic there are only facts but in some others there are opinions.

SEEK DIFFERENT OPINIONS: -

- ❖ Meet people with whom you disagree
- ❖ Read a newspaper belongs to opposite parties
- ❖ When different opinions are expressed by different parties think over the possibilities rather than rejecting instantly.

IMAGINE AN ARGUMENT WITH A PERSON HAVING DIFFERENT BIAS:

Bertrand Russell refers, that one mahatma Gandhi himself was an opponent of railways steam boats and machines. Perhaps the greatest leader was influenced by the general conception avoiding western inventions.

BEWARE OF OPINIONS THAT FLATTERS YOURSELF ESTEEM: -

Bertrand Russell explains personal bias and conception truths how gender wise self-esteem causes that pure foolishness in understanding the other side of the coin men with self-esteem believe that most of the poets, scientists and other intellectual are men at the same time women with self-esteem believe that the most of criminals are men. It shows self-esteem is a matter of individual superiority.

By the listening some moral speeches from Swami Vivekananda, Mother Theresa, APJ Kalam etc., if we can read some best books. We can develop moral values, humanity, helping nature, will power, discipline with these qualities we can avoid foolish opinions.

These are the points placed before us by Bertrand Russell which helps us not to have foolish opinions.
